Birds are warm-blooded animals that have wings, feathers, a beak, no teeth, a skeleton in which many bones are joined together. Most birds can fly. Birds have a very strong heart and a good way of breathing—these are necessary for birds to fly. Birds use a lot of energy while flying and need to eat a lot of food so they can fly.

Birds do not have any teeth. Birds have a tongue, but a bird's tongue is hard. Birds build nests in trees, on cliffs, or on the ground. Birds bear their young in hard-shelled eggs which hatch after some time. Some birds, like chickens, lay eggs each day, others only once every few years.

37. Why do birds need to eat often?

- (A) because they are hungry
- (B) because they lay big eggs
- (C) because they have a good heart
- (D) because they need strength to fly

38. Where can birds lay their eggs?

- (A) on cliffs
